

SCHAUBLE'S PERILOUS FOLLIES

Tassos Symeonides
(Academic Advisor)

Copyright: Research Institute for European and American Studies (www.rieas.gr)
Publication date: 9 October 2016

Note: The article reflects the opinion of the author and not necessarily the views of the Research Institute for European and American Studies (RIEAS)

How dreadful are the curses which Mohammedanism lays on its votaries! Besides the fanatical frenzy, which is as dangerous in a man as hydrophobia in a dog, there is this fearful fatalistic apathy. The effects are apparent in many countries, improvident habits, slovenly systems of agriculture, sluggish methods of commerce, and insecurity of property exist wherever the followers of the Prophet rule or live.

Winston Churchill

As long as there is this book [i.e. the Quran] there will be no peace in the world.

William Gladstone

Wolfgang Schäuble, the German finance minister, has won long ago the undisputed glory of being the most fanatical proponent of brutal austrian economism that is methodically destroying European economies (with the exception of Germany's). We are well versed in his style of callous irony, snarky remarks, and obvious disdain for those who fail the iron German test for Ordnung.

But now Schäuble, leaving aside for a moment his brutalizing other Europeans with the austrian piece of rubber hose, seeks to outdo himself by proposing “to develop a ‘German Islam’ based on liberalism and tolerance.”

To leave aside for a moment that mentioning liberalism and tolerance in the same breath with Islam is cause for mirth or painful shock, at worst, Schäuble's proposals display historical illiteracy and the kind of dreadful "inclusionism" that is now shaking European countries to the core.

Schäuble is not new in his effort to impose Islam on Germany as a constitutional ingredient on that country. Ten years ago, when he was interior minister, he launched the so-called "conference on Islam," an annual attempt to promote "understanding" between Moslems and the German public. His latest "German Islam" antic thus comes as no surprise although its timing is poor. It is an obvious, if strained, effort to buttress the policy direction which Angela Merkel continues to preach despite the illegal Moslem immigrant invasion of summer 2015—the policy of "we can do it," i.e. a policy of effective resignation to accepting the Moslem onslaught as an act of God that cannot be resisted or corrected in any way. Both Merkel and Schäuble, a quick review of the news shows, are completely out of tune with German public opinion on Islam, just like the majority of European leaders are vis-a-vis their own voters in the disintegrating "EUtopia."

Schäuble's "German Islam," and similar attitudes elsewhere in Europe, highlight the total disconnect between European "leadership" elites and the palpable facts about Islam in Europe. European countries now come to recognize (some of them grudgingly) that creating Moslem strongholds inside their societies is the perfect way of bringing in vicious violence, deep alienation, and, in the end, the unrelenting efforts by those under "assimilation" to undermine, sabotage, and challenge the host societies as they become "radicalized."

Schäuble and others like him insist on ignoring history—both of their own countries and that of the world—and pushing in a direction that would make the present "challenges" posed by implanted Islam appear like child's play once the full blast of this unconscionable social grafting operation is felt.

Above all, Merkel, Schäuble and others like them are committed to a bewildering effort to destabilize their societies in the name of future "benefits" from accepting Moslems, originating in countries overwhelmed by Sharia as the word of God, which are never explained in a fact-based, rational, and believable manner beyond claims of "we can do it" (one would be correct to assume such answers do not exist and cannot even be invented).

The obvious question that follows the increasing push of the "we can do it" argument is WHY should we do it?

Sly "reasoning" aside, the answer to this latter question our "leaders" avoid with a passion because they feel "enlightened" enough to harangue us daily and push to chaperon us away from the vagaries of “religious bigotry” and “race intolerance.” They see themselves as the Apostles of the Delivered Truth who cannot make mistakes by divine blessing (in religious terms, they promote dogma over reason mimicking what they claim is an abomination, viz. conservative Christian thinking).

Schäuble’s “German Islam,” just like Merkel’s “we can do it,” ignore the signs of the times. A few examples:

a) German authorities are doing a mess of a job weeding out Moslem “refugees” using good quality fake passports to set up themselves as members of “German Islam” (complete with social benefits and other perks at the expense of the German taxpayer).

(b) Entrepreneurial Moslem “migrants” in Germany run apartment scams making healthy profits from “refugees” who appear to have plenty of liquid assets—and thus should be exempted from government support programs.

(c) Over 500,000 “refugees,” whose asylum applications have been rejected, are still living in Germany (and continue to collect taxpayer’s money). Instead of deportations, apparently “humane” treatment prevails thus making a mockery out of German Ordnung.

(d) Angry “refugees” (overwhelmingly young single men looking for a spot in the “EU” paradise) become violent, or have “fun” in other ways, at the expense of hapless European “natives” who do not dare protest for fear of the liberal, politically correct talking heads branding them “racist.”

(e) Trouble like this will continue to increase exponentially because sinking one’s head in the sand has this effect—with well-known consequences.

Schäuble’s “German Islam” is naive and dangerous. If this sounds “extreme” it is extreme—in the sense it calls out the breed of Western politicians who insist on ignoring basic tenets of their history and civilization and deliberately push for fundamental toxic social changes they believe make us more “civilized.”

Ultimately, this breed rejects both reason and evidence and insists on the preposterous mantra of “in division and diversity we thrive.”

Both Schäuble’s and Merkel’s motives in attempting the social, political, and economic ruination of their country are unclear and we may never know what sparked them.

One explanation could be a sense of trying to psychologically atone for Germany's horrific attempt in 1939-45 to subjugate the world through war and exterminate tens of millions of people as a matter of "policy." What these German leaders do not understand, however, is that by promoting the "we can do it" tune, with Islam as the chosen test case, they set the fuse for another "splendid little war" which could escape all limits and devour both the "civilized" and the "bigots."

History has always a way of punishing those who ignore it.

Recommended reading: Germany on the Brink / The refugee crisis is exposing Europe's folly / Merkel's Folly: Most Germans Want Islam Out / EU Immigration 2015 / Waking up Angela Merkel in Wonderland